Where is your business heading?

Congratulations on being in business all these years! How is your Business doing during this unprecedented hard time?

Did you know, according to the U.S. Small Business Administration, over 50% of small businesses fail in the first year and 95% fail within the first five years? Also, Dun & Bradstreet reports that Businesses with fewer than 20 employees have only a 37% chance of surviving four years (of business) while only 9% of these businesses have a chance of surviving 10 years and only 10% of them close involuntarily due to bankruptcy. This means the remaining 90% close because the business was not successful, did not provide the level of income desired, or was too weak to continue (Click here to get more facts)

So if you are still in the business, you are definitely doing something right! However, how is your Business doing during this unprecedented hard time? Are you looking to scale or find new strategies to continue growing?

If you are the founder/CEO of your business, here are a number of questions I want you to ask yourself:

1. What is your current business growth rate?

2. Do you have a business or marketing plan and budget to reach your business goals?

3. How do you track your projected transactions or goals to your actuals?

4. How many times have you pivoted your business development strategies so far this year? Do you need a second pair of glasses to review your business analysis?

5. Do you have any exit strategies?

Your responses to these questions will help you understand where your business is heading and how much work you need to put in to ensure sustainable growth. If your responses are predominantly "no" or "I don't know"

My suggestion is for you to make sure you have in place the Business plan, Marketing plan, and operation plan. These three plans can save you a lot of frustrations.

If you want to chat about your business strategies or plans, we will be happy to offer you 30 min Free consulting. Please Click here to schedule. GROWTH is mandatory right now.
